

“Lest we forget”

78 years ago on 18 November 1943 the 'Battle of Berlin' begins.....

The RAF 101 squadron Lancaster LM370 SR-K2 took part as a ABC equipped Lancaster in the first massive raid of the “The Battle of Berlin” on 18-19 November 1943.

Berlin was the main target, and was attacked by 440 Lancasters aided by 4 Mosquitos. Few German fighters intercepted the Bomber force, 9 Lancasters were lost.

Berlin was that evening completely cloud-covered and both marking, and bombing were carried out blindly. Bomber Command could make no assessment of the results; many bombs fell outside the city and the local report lists some minor damage and loss of some farms.

On its return flight from Berlin the Irish pilot, Flying Officer Charles Patrick McManus and his crew, flying the Lancaster LM370 SR-K2 were attacked at 23.12 hrs. close to Schoonebeek and shot down by the German night fighter pilot Feldwebel Rudi Frank flying a JU 88 of 2./NJG 3.

The Lancaster LM370 SR-K2 crashed after a severe mid-air explosion in the field close to Schoonebeek and the entire crew lost their lives, parts of the aircraft were scattered over a large area.
